POLITICS BEING PLAYED IN MINE ORGANIZATION

Plan on Foot to Capture Control of District Offices

HALAPY TO THE FRONT

Friend of Feehan's Would Defeat Him for President --Conditions Generally

Politics are being played in the miners' organization, it is claimed, by a certain class to gain control of the officers, particularly in this district. The knd of politics will be abundantly demonstrated it is declared at the time of the coming winter elections of the various officials. There is not so much of an effort noticed in the national organization as there is in District No. 5 where Francis Feehan is now president and in this district may center a merry war.

Francis Feehan and his forces have been let peacefully alone since the time of the national investigation of conditions in this district and Robert Gibbons, who constituted himself Feehan's chief trouble maker is back in the mines. But nowthere is a movement on foot that will take a little thinking among some of the leading mining leaders in the organization to averret out.

This movement isnone other than to place Michael Halapy, now editor of the United Mine Journal, in Feehan's job. Halapy has usually been regarded as a close friend of Feehan's and it is stated that kindly offices of the latter were instrumental in affording him his present job. He is of foreign parentage and by nature, inination and political faith a Socialist, but nevertheless a well read man. Halaphy, however is not regarded as the kind of a man that would fill Feehan's shoes with the greatest credit to the position or himself. He is a thorough thinker but has not the Feehan characteristic of quick thought and action in places demanding good executive ability Backing the movement to have Halapy succeed Feehan, it is stated are a number of his Socialist friends and they are particularly desirous of seeing him elevated to the position.

Contrary to the announcement made few days ago that either John Mitchell or John Walker would oppose John P. White for national president a statement has been made that neither Mitchell or Walker will enter the field. White is regarded as a capable man for the place and indications point to his re-election by a big majority.

Plenty Game For Hunters

Rabbits Thick in Greene and Fayette Counties Along the River

According to Capt. Frank Gilmore, of the Steamer Return, hunters are thicker than candidates the day before election, along the shores of the Monongahela in Fayette and Greene counties. Early Wednesday morning they were out, he says and it wasn't hardly daylight before he noticed as he was bringing his craft down river, numberless devotees of the chase with rabbits hanging from their game pouches making their way to the nearest point of habitation. Capt. Gilmore says the rabbits are plentiful near the sixth pool, which is above Lock No. 6.

ORDER IS ESSENTIAL

"Christian" Says Church and Society Should Aid Police

HOW THE STATE FIGURES

To the Editor of the Charleroi Mail:

Sir—In a recent article in your paper a young man complained of his and others treatment by the police was such that it tended to make them worse instead of better men. Any punishment which fails to bring the guilty party to a realization of the wrong which he has committed will hardly cause him any thought as to how he should overcome his failing but it might possibly be so unpleasant to him that he would not care to repeat the experience.

The article submitted by "Citizen" printed in your paper will no doubt help the boys to see that the police and magistrates did not do as much to them as they might have done Will they now confess their wrong and resolve to be better men? They can hardly expect to improve unless they do.

If every intelligent well meaning person could only fully understand his duty as a citizen in such cases as well as his religious duty much friction could be avoided and their influence would do much towards bettering mankind. It must ever remain the imperative duty and necessary function of the State to protect the lives and property of its citizens as well as to maintain good order. To do so it must punish those who violate the law and that regardless of whether it makes the guilty party a better or a worse man. The public official who fails to do his full duty in this regard is a traitor to his trust and an enemy to society. On the other hand the church is bound by every tie of the uman heart as well as enjoined by sacred writ to feed the hungry, give drink to the thirsty, shelter the stranger, clothe the naked, visit the sick and go to the ones in

OCTOBER SHIPMENTS SHOW AN INCREASE

Lock No. 4 Report for Month Evidences Better Conditions Along the Valley---Much Gravel Being Shipped

Coal shipments were still better during October than for months previous through Lock No.4 and the trade is still improving. When the year ends the showing will not be very good owing to the dull period of summer but the first months and the last months of the year will balance up well with former years.

There were 13,120,000 bushels of coal shipped through Lock No. 4 during the month of October. This is 1,418,000 bushels less than the trade for October, 1910, when the total shipments were 14,538,000 bushels In Septemebr of this year the shipments totaled 11, 562,000 bushels.

There were 1,265 crafts locked down stream during the month and there were 564 lockages. Passing up stream there were 1,328 crafts and the lockages numbered 579.

A feature of the month's trade at Lock No. 4 was the amount of gravel and sand that was consigned to the contractors building the new railroad bridge at Geneva. The gravel amounted to 128,000 bushels and the sand to 42,000 bushels.

Rainfall during the month was 3.47 inches. The small lock was flooded three times, on October 3, 8 and 15 On October 8, the big lock was also flooded.

FIRST FLURRY OF SNOW COMES

Beautiful White Accompanies Stiff Northwestern Breeze This Morning

OVERCOATS FEEL GOOD

Lending to the already winter weather a decidedly December effect, the first snow of the season fell this morning. It came on the heels of the predicted severe northwestern breeze and for a half hour this morning the beautiful white flew in whirling gusts while people on the street wrapped in heavy overcoats buffeted their way against the stiff wind.

The elements left the mercury alone after the temperature had been thrust down around the freezing point. The wind made the weather feel a whole lot colder than it really was. Warmer weather may be expected between this and Thanksgiving but not very much of it.

Good Meeting in Held at Roscoe by Campaign Party

SPENDING THE DAY HERE

Will Go to Donora Tonight and Hold Session in Dr. Lewis' Home Town

Interest in political circles of Washington county centers in the river section this week. The Republican candidates are now busily engaged in an active canvass of this section and are holding frequent meetings. Wednesday night a rally was held at Roscoe, which would probably be termed "rousing" more correctly than any previous meeting. This morning the county Republican ticket was largely represented in Charleroi and this afternoon most of the candidates went to Monongahela Tonight at Donora the hosts will assemble and tell the people of Dr. Lewis' home town adequate reasons for voting the Republican ticket entire.

The meeting at Roscoe was held in Furlong's hall and the place was filled even until standing room was at a premium. Coroner James T. Heffran Harry A. Jones of Washington, Deputy District Attorney T. H. W. Fergus and Richard G. Miller, candidate for district attorney spoke. Most of the Republican candidates were there and they were accorded a fitting ovation.

This morning there assembled in Charleroi where stopping is good, R. G. Lutton, candidate for sheriff, Samuel Downer, candidate for county treasurer, Boyd C. Parshall, candidate for register, J. A. Berry and Thomas Hill, candidates for commissioner. H. D Browneller candidate for director of the poor, Coroner Heffran, George E. Lockhart and others. They met a number of voters.

County Commissioner Berry and Hill were asked about the boulevard proposed to be built between Charleroi and Donora They explained that all they had done was to have it surveyed It would cost possibly $100,000 a mile. Mr. Berry said he didn't allow any criticism to bother his head, feeling that the board had done what was right. Mr. Hill also explained the situation and said he thought the right thing had been done as the people from this section petitioned for the road and that anyhow the commissioners didn't have much to do with the matter, except to present the petitions to the grand jury for action.

MOTORS ARE PUT IN WORKING ORDER

Although there are a few changes yet to be made motors have been put in use at the Ninth street school building for running the fan. The motors were installed by the Charleroi Foundry company and were recently put in use, replacing the old gasoline engine which had been used for several years. The noisy clang in the radiators which came from the use of the engine has been done away with, and replaced by a pleasant whirring sound which one is unable to detect without carefully listening Altogether the motors have made a big improvement.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP.

It is during a political campaign, particularly like the present one, where the officials who conduct the fiscal affairs of county, township and borough are to be elected, that the value of good citizenship is apparent. Good citizenship implies good public service, and the ideal citizen is one who regards the public service as a public trust and exercises his elective franchise accordingly

All these offices, both remunerative and honorary, involve the expenditure of the public funds and the administration of the public service which concerns all alike. If the public service is adminstered prudently and economically and with the chief end in view to attain the greatest possible good for the greatest number of citizens, the whole community profits. If the administration is loose and extravagant, and designed to benefit and secure private and personal interests, the whole community is an equal sufferer.

For some unexplained reason many people think all that can be obtained from the public in a personal or community way is clear gain. In this they are mistaken It all has to come out of the pockets of the people in one way or another. Each citizen and taxpayer is an integral part of the State, and it is the aggregation which goes to make up the whole. Good citizenship makes good town and county government, and these in turn make a good State, which in combination make a Nation that stands foremo t in human liberty and progress. It all starts and hinges on the individual.

NOT UTILIZED.

With all that is said and done to promote the improvement of our inland waterways, and with all the money that the Government has already expended, little advantage is taken by individuals of the opportunities to develop this great economic factor of our country. About all the benefit that the improvements of the Monongahela river confers is in the shipment of coal and some freight by a few of the big industrial corporations The individual and private business man does not take advantage of an opportunity to develop and build up a great river carrying trade which in the end will greatly cheapen the transportation of commodities which the people consume or produce.

Suppose New York, Philadelphia, San Francisco and all the great seaports should refuse to build sufficient wharfage for boats to land on the theory that the railroads can ship in stuff quicker and at whatever rates they see fit to charge? Would that be considered good public policy? Hardly. Yet this is exactly what Charleroi and comparatively all the river towns are doing. The Government has spent millions of dollars in providing and maintaining an inland waterway for this valley, the use of which is utilized by but a single industry Suppose all the coal mines of the valley should shut down for a period of from five to ten years for the purpose of conserving the coal which is possible if not probable? It would result in the lockmen and river employes being without an occupation.

In these days of cheap navigation, gasoline and electric launches the Monongahela should be traversed as much as a public highway No transportation is so cheap as by water, but this sort of traffic must be encouraged and developed There is scarcely a suitable landing place for private traffic anywhere along the river, and this lack of appreciation of a valuable public utility is one of the things that makes transportion costly and the cost of living high.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

A well known Methodist minister relates a story of a colleague which was told to him at one of the conference gatherings. This colleague, who was a veteran in the ministry, told how one time when a young minister he was assigned to a backwoods charge that included three cross-roads churches. Putting one of his old sermons in his saddelbags the young minister rode on horseback to his new charge to fill his pulpits the first Sunday, before he moved his family there. He found that his itinerary demanded that he preach in the morning at the largest hamlet, which was to be his headquarters, in the afternoon at the farthest country church, and in the evening at the intermediate place of worship.

"Taking his one sermon he had brought along, which happened to be from the text, "I am not ashamed of the gospel," the young minister made a good impression at the morning service In the congregation he noticed a negro, which was an unusual thing for that community, and at dinner he learned that the colored man was employed as a hostler at the village tavern.

"In the afternoon at the farthest country church in his charge, he had scarcely announced his text. "I am not ashamed of the gospel,' ' when he again noticed his colored friend in the congregation He silently wondered if the negro noted the sermon was the same as in the morning, but did not think much about it In the evening, however at the third church, when he again announced his text, "I am not ashamed of the gospel," he was more than ever disconcerted, when he again beheld his colored friend and brother in the congregation. At the close of services while shaking hands with the congregation, he greeted his colored friend, who exclaimed:

"You'se de best preacher I ebber seen. You'se not tshamed ob de gospel in Hope Centre, in Glendale, or heah—not ashamed ob it any where. Dat's de true religion!"

Would the hose reel all around?
And if the waters could speak as they flow,
How would Long Island Sound?

If you board a spell at a shore hotel
Is the billow that you pay?
If a single car weighs several tons,
How much does the whole subway?

Can a scavenger be a cheerful man,
When he's always in the dumps?

Would the dancers use their pumps?

In what does the salmon roe?
If no grass is grown in the frozen North,
What does the Eskimo?

If a gun missed fire, would a parachute?
This stuff gives me a pain.
If Franklin Park is a beautiful spot,
Why is Jamaica Plain?

If a bulldfrog wore a hobble skirt,
Would the lily pad—and hark?
If a thief broke into a drug store,
Do you thing the dogwood bark?

If a parrot can swear can a crocus too?

Enough, ere we will grow ill!

A Helpless Invalid

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

A woman who is sick and suffering, and won't at least try a medicine which has the record of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, is, it would almost seem, to blame for her own wretchedness. Read what this woman says:

Richmond, Mo. — "When my second daughter was eighteen months old I was pronounced a hopeless invalid by specialists. I had a consultation of doctors and they said I had a severe case of ulceration. I was in bed for ten weeks, had sinking spells, and was pronounced to be in a dangerous condition. My father insisted that we try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and brought me six bottles. I soon began to improve, and before it had all been taken I was as well and strong as ever,—my friends hardly recognized me so great was the change." — Mrs. Woodson Branstetter, Richmond, Mo.

There are literally hundreds of thousands of women in the United States who have been benefited by this famous old remedy, which was produced from roots and herbs over thirty years ago by a woman to relieve woman's suffering.

Read what another woman says:—

Jonesboro, Texas. — "I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for myself and daughter, and consider it unequalled for all female diseases. I would not be without it for anything. I wish every mother in America could be persuaded to use it as there would be less suffering among our sex then. I am always glad to speak a word of praise for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and you are at liberty to use this testimonial."—Mrs. James T. Lawrence, Jonesboro, Texas.

Since we guarantee that all testimonials which we publish are genuine, is it not fair to suppose that if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had the virtue to help these women it will help any other woman who is suffering from the same trouble?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

If the slightest trouble appears which you do not understand, write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for her advice—it is free and always helpful.

The Daily Newspaper

All experienced advertisers acknowledge that familiarity by the public with the name and nature of their wares is one of the first essentials of success. To attain this familiarity the eye must be appealed to, and appealed to repeatedly. Sporadic appeals are as useless as a bucket of water thrown on an arid plain. What the eye sees the mind holds, but they must see it daily---and the daily newspaper offers the only stable opportunity for the direct aim at the vision. The story told in the daily newspaper, day after day, is impressed on the mind. This impression is a valuable factor.

Dissolving Alum.

When alum is intended for external use, where it is purposely to callous the flesh, as in the case of fever blisters and heated or even frost-bitten feet, if it is dissolved in alcohol it will be twice as effective. The alcohol is quickly absorbed by the flesh, carries some of the dissolved alum with it, and, therefore, less applications will be required to achieve the desired results.

prison. But will any one say that the man who toils to get food for his family must support the lazy tramp who will not work, that a man should visit the sick when a doctor prescribes quiet, or go into prison and complain about the laws of the State and the conduct of the officers whose duty it is to enforce the laws?

If we could only learn to visit the prisons so as to extend sympathy and help to the man who realizes his shame and give good advice to the man who still persists in his erring way we could possibly do more good than by standing around berating our public officials.

STRENGTHENED BY NEW SCHOOL CODE

Keystone State's Advanced Position in Popular Education.

LIBERALITY OF LEGISLATURE

Removal of Limitations In Former System and Higher Standards In Scholarship.

In popular education no other state has taken a more advanced position than Pennsylvania. The superiority of the Keystone State's public school system is attracting the attention of leading educators throughout the country. Recently a New England critic in a magazine article called attention to the fact that Pennsylvania's poorest paid country school teachers receive larger salaries than thousands of teachers in New England; that the scholarship standards and professional training in the normal schools of this state have reached an exceptionally high standard of excellence; that normal school principals in Pennsylvania receive 60 per cent higher salaries than those, for instance, in Massachusetts; that this state appropriates more money for her common schools than all of the New England states combined and, what is of the highest importance, politics has played no part in the administration of the state's schools for many years.

The public school system of Pennsylvania was further strengthened by legislation at the recent session of the legislature, which enacted a new school code law and appropriated $15,000,000 for the support of the public schools during the next two years. This appropriation brings the total appropriation during the past twenty years in which the Republican party has been supreme in the state to the magnificent sum of $121,000,000. During all the years that preceded the total appropriation for that purpose amounted to less than $40,000,000.

Development of Public School System.

The enactment of the new code law marks an epoch in the development of popular education in Pennsylvania. In it the essential elements of the public school system as established during three quarters of a century are preserved, while many of the defects and limitations of that system are removed. It strengthens the department of public instruction by giving the state superintendent an increased force of assistants and an intelligent body of advisers in the state board of education. It seeks to prepare the way for the gradual accumulation of a state school fund, the revenues from which can be used to assist the weaker districts and to make school facilities more nearly equal all over the state. It provides medical inspection at state expense for rural districts and for all communities which have a population less than 5000. Many a child can be placed on an equal footing with other children if its eyes, ears, nose, teeth and throat are examined by a skillful physician and if existing defects are brought to the attention of the parents and corrected by careful treatment. The public has come to believe in the conservation of our national resources. No asset has greater possibilities than the children who are now at school and who will shape the future destinies of the republic.

Equal Opportunities For Pupils.

The care of the child's health is of supreme importance. Poorly constructed school houses are a menace to the health of both teacher and pupil. The code provides for suggestions and criticisms by an experienced architect whenever school houses are to be erected. In heating, lighting, ventilation and general comfort, the latest school houses excel the average home, and under the new plans for building school houses, the child's health may be expected to improve from the day it enters the public schools.

The new code also reduces the size of the school boards and confers upon the school directors larger powers for effective education. It permits the voters to say whether the directors in office have given the children satisfactory school privileges. If they have not furnished adequate school facilities, new men can be elected in their places. In so far as the directors have been faithful to their trust, the people can continue them in office. Provision is made for the introduction of new forms of agricultural and industrial education. The law seeks to place within reach of every child the advantages of a standard high school course, thus opening the doors of entrance to the occupations which pay best and which now aspire to be ranked as learned professions. Under the new code the public schools, more than ever before, will mean equal opportunities for all the children of the commonwealth.

[illegible] For Teachers.

[illegible] been taken of [illegible] service. This [illegible] laws governing [illegible] dentistry and medi[illegible] always avoided in[illegible] the sources of a liveli[illegible] those in the professions were dependent, but the higher standards of entrance have been made to apply to those who are preparing to enter upon a professional career. On the one hand the code does not interfere with the certificates of teachers in the service, but on the other, it supplies a stimulus to beginners, who should push their studies until they can pass the examination for a life certificate. The constitution prevents pensions except to sailors and soldiers in the service of the state or the nation. Hence it has been impossible to provide pensions for teachers out of state funds. Laws permitting the local authorities to provide retirement funds for teachers have been enacted, and the wisdom of this legislation as exemplified in many sections of the commonwealth has added further laurels to the record of the Republican party.

The legislature also provided for the organization of a bureau of professional education for the purpose of securing reciprocity with other states in medical, dental and pharmaceutical licenses. Pennsylvania has always been foremost in her colleges of medicine, dentistry and pharmacy, and the new legislation will serve to perpetuate the supremacy of schools in professional education.

Distribution of School Funds.

The liberality of the legislature in aiding the institutions of higher learning is unrivalled in the history of the state. It has substituted for the three medical examining boards a single and separate board of examiners which will pass upon the qualifications of all medical students, thereby placing all the schools of medicine upon the same basis and requiring them all to attain the same standard of qualifications.

The new method of distributing the school appropriation is an improvement on all former methods. After deducting from the gross amount items like the amount required under the minimum salary act and for free tuition in the state normal schools for the training of teachers, the remainder is divided into two equal parts. One-half is distributed upon the basis of the number of teachers employed, and the other half is distributed upon the basis of the children between six and sixteen years of age. This will prevent any injustice from the padding of the roll of taxables by the enumeration of temporary sojourners in the crowded centers of population.

The enactment of the new school code and the creation of the bureaus of medical and professional education are distinct steps of progress for which the Republican party can claim credit.

POLITICS BEING PLAYED IN MINE ORGANIZATION

Plan on Foot to Capture Control of District Offices

HALAPY TO THE FRONT

Friend of Feehan's Would Defeat Him for President --Conditions Generally

Politics are being played in the miners' organization, it is claimed, by a certain class to gain control of the officers, particularly in this district. The kind of politics will be abundantly demonstrated it is declared at the time of the coming winter elections of the various officials. There is not so much of an effort noticed in the national organization as there is in District No. 5 where Francis Feehan is now president and in this district may center a merry war.

Francis Feehan and his forces have been let peacefully alone since the time of the national investigation of conditions in this district and Roubert Gibbons, who constituted himself Feehan's chief trouble maker is back in the mines. But nowthere is a movement on foot that will take a little thinking among some of the leading mining leaders in the organization to ferret out.

This movement isnone other than to place Michael Halapy, now editor of the United Mine Journal, in Feehan's job. Halapy has usually been regarded as a close friend of Feehan's and it is stated that kindly offices of the latter were instrumental in affording him his present job. He is of foreign parentage and by nature, inclination and political faith a Socialist, but nevertheless a well read man. Halaphy, however is not regarded as the kind of a man that would fill Feehan's shoes with the greatest credit to the position or himself. He is a thorough thinker but has not the Feehan characteristic of quick thought and action in places demanding good executive ability Backing the movement to have Halapy succeed Feehan, it is stated are a number of his Socialist friends and they are particularly desirous of seeing him elevated to the position.

Contrary to the announcement made a few days ago that either John Mitchell or John Walker would oppose John P. White for national president a statement has been made that neither Mitchell or Walker will enter the field. White is regarded as a capable man for the place and indications point to his re-election by a big majority.

Plenty Game For Hunters

Rabbits Thick in Greene and Fayette Counties Along the River

According to Capt. Frank Gilmore, of the Steamer Return, hunters are thicker than candidates the day before election, along the shores of the Monongahela in Fayette and Greene counties. Early Wednesday morning they were out, he says and it wasn't hardly daylight before he noticed as he was bringing his craft down river, numberless devotees of the chase with rabbits hanging from their game pouches making their way to the nearest point of habitation. Capt. Gilmore says the rabbits are plentiful near the sixth pool, which is above Lock No. 6.

"Christian" Says Church and Society Should Aid Police

HOW THE STATE FIGURES

To the Editor of the Charleroi Mail:

Sir—In a recent article in your paper a young man complained of his and others treatment by the police was such that it tended to make them worse instead of better men. Any punishment which fails to bring the guilty party to a realization of the wrong which he has committed will hardly cause him any thought as to how he should overcome his failing but it might possibly be so unpleasant to him that he would not care to repeat the experience

The article submitted by "Citizen" printed in your paper will no doubt help the boys to see that the police and magistrates did not do as much to them as they might have done Will they now confess their wrong and resolve to be better men? They can hardly expect to improve unless they do.

If every intelligent well meaning person could only fully understand his duty as a citizen in such cases as well as his religious duty much friction could be avoided and their influence would do much towards bettering mankind It must ever remain the imperative duty and necessary function of the State to protect the lives and property of its citizens as well as to maintain good order. To do so it must punish those who violate the law and that regardless of whether it makes the guilty party a better or a worse man. The public official who fails to do his full duty in this regard is a traitor to his trust and an enemy to society. On the other hand the church is bound by every tie of the uman heart as well as enjoined by sacred writ to feed the hungry, give drink to the thirsty, shelter the stranger, clothe the naked. visit the sick and go to the ones in

Lock No. 4 Report for Month Evidences Better Conditions Along the Valley---Much Gravel Being Shipped

Coal shipments were still better during October than for months previous through Lock No.4 and the trade is still improving. When the year ends the showing will not be very good owing to the dull period of summer but the first months and the last months of the year will balance up well with former years.

There were 13,120,000 bushels of coal shipped through Lock No. 4 during the month of October. This is 1,418,000 bushels less than the trade for October, 1910, when the total shipments were 14,538.000 bushels In Septemebr of this year the shipments totaled 11, 562.000 bushels.

There were 1,265 crafts locked down stream during the month and there were 564 lockages. Passing up stream there were 1,328 crafts and the lockages numbered 579.

A feature of the month's trade at Lock No. 4 was the amount of gravel and sand that was consigned to the contractors building the new railroad bridge at Geneva. The gravel amounted to 128,000 bushels and the sand to 42,000 bushels.

Rainfall during the month was 3.47 inches. The small lock was flooded three times, on October 3. 8 and 15 On October 8, the big lock was also flooded.

FIRST FLURRY OF SNOW COMES

Beautiful White Accompanies Stiff Northwestern Breeze This Morning

OVERCOATS FEEL GOOD

Lending to the already winter weather a decidedly December effect, the first snow of the season fell this morning. It came on the heels of the predicted severe northwestern breeze and for a half hour this morning the beautiful white flew in whirling gusts while people on the street wrapped in heavy overcoats buffeted their way against the stiff wind.

The elements left the mercury alone after the temperature had been thrust down around the freezing point. The wind made the weather feel a whole lot colder than it really was. Warmer weather may be expected between this and Thanksgiving but not very much of it.

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES CENTER ON THE VALLEY

Good Meeting in Held at Roscoe by Campaign Party

SPENDING THE DAY HERE

Will Go to Donora Tonight and Hold Session in Dr. Lewis' Home Town

Interest in political circles of Washington county centers in the river section this week. The Republican candidates are now busily engaged in an active canvass of this section and are holding frequent meetings Wednesday night a rally was held at Roscoe, which would probably be termed "rousing" more correctly than any previous meeting This morning the county Republican ticket was largely represented in Charleroi and this afternoon most of the candidates went to Monongahela Tonight at Donora the hosts will assemble and tell the people of Dr. Lewis' home town adequate reasons for voting the Republican ticket entire.

The meeting at Roscoe was held in Furlong's hall and the place was filled even until standing room was at a premium. Coroner James T. Heffran Harry A. Jones of Washington, Deputy District Attorney T. H W. Fergus and Richard G Miller, candidate for district attorney spoke. Most of the Republican candidates were there and they were accorded a fitting ovation.

This morning there assembled in Charleroi where stopping is good, R. G. Lutton, candidate for sheriff, Samuel Downer, candidate for county treasurer, Boyd C. Parshall, candidate for register, J. A. Berry and Thomas Hill, candidates for commissioner. H. D Browneller candidate for director of the poor, Coroner Heffran, George E. Lockhart and others. They met a number of voters.

County Commissioner Berry and Hill were asked about the boulevard proposed to be built between Charleroi and Donora They explained that all they had done was to have it surveyed It would cost possibly $100,000 a mile. Mr. Berry said he didn't allow any criticism to bother his head, feeling that the board had done what was right. Mr. Hill also explained the situation and said he thought the right thing had been done as the people from this section petitioned for the road and that anyhow the commissioners didn't have much to do with the matter, except to present the petitions to the grand jury for action.

MOTORS ARE PUT IN WORKING ORDER

Although there are a few changes yet to be made motors have been put in use at the Ninth street school building for running the fan. The motors were installed by the Charleroi Foundry company and were recently put in use, replacing the old gasoline engine which had been used for several years. The noisy clang in the radiators which came from the use of the engine has been done away with, and replaced by a pleasant whirring sound which one is unable to detect without carefully listening Altogether the motors have made a big improvement.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP.

It is during a political campaign, particularly like the present one, where the officials who conduct the fiscal affairs of county, township and borough are to be elected, that the value of good citizenship is apparent. Good citizenship implies good public service, and the ideal citizen is one who regards the public service as a public trust and exercises his elective franchise accordingly

All these offices, both remunerative and honorary, involve the expenditure of the public funds and the administration of the public service which concerns all alike. If the public service is adminstered prudently and economically and with the chief end in view to attain the greatest possible good for the greatest number of citizens, the whole community profits. If the administration is loose and extravagant, and designed to benefit and secure private and personal interests, the whole community is an equal sufferer.

For some unexplained reason many people think all that can be obtained from the public in a personal or community way is clear gain. In this they are mistaken. It all has to come out of the pockets of the people in one way or another. Each citizen and taxpayer is an integral part of the State, and it is the aggregation which goes to make up the whole. Good citizenship makes good town and county government, and these in turn make a good State, which in combination make a Nation that stands foremost in human liberty and progress. It all starts and hinges on the individual.

NOT UTILIZED.

With all that is said and done to promote the improvement of our inland waterways, and with all the money that the Government has already expended, little advantage is taken by individuals of the opportunities to develop this great economic factor of our country. About all the benefit that the improvements of the Monongahela river confers is in the shipment of coal and some freight by a few of the big industrial corporations. The individual and private business man does not take advantage of an opportunity to develop and build up a great river carrying trade which in the end will greatly cheapen the transportation of commodities which the people consume or produce.

Suppose New York, Philadelphia, San Francisco and all the great seaports should refuse to build sufficient wharfage for boats to land on the theory that the railroads can ship in stuff quicker and at whatever rates they see fit to charge? Would that be considered good public policy? Hardly. Yet this is exactly what Charleroi and comparatively all the river towns are doing. The Government has spent millions of dollars in providing and maintaining an inland waterway for this valley, the use of which is utilized by but a single industry Suppose all the coal mines of the valley should shut down for a period of from five to ten years for the purpose of conserving the coal which is possible if not probable? It would result in the lockmen and river employes being without an occupation.

In these days of cheap navigation, gasoline and electric launches the Monongahela should be traversed as much as a public highway No transportation is so cheap as by water, but this sort of traffic must be encouraged and developed There is scarcely a suitable landing place for private traffic anywhere along the river, and this lack of appreciation of a valuable public utility is one of the things that makes transportion costly and the cost of living high.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

A well known Methodist minister relates a story of a colleague which was told to him at one of the conference gatherings. This colleague, who was a veteran in the ministry, told how one time when a young minister he was assigned to a backwoods charge that included three cross-roads churches. Putting one of his old sermons in his saddelbags the young minister rode on horseback to his new charge to fill his pulpits the first Sunday, before he moved his family there. He found that his itinerary demanded that he preach in the morning at the largest hamlet, which was to be his headquarters, in the afternoon at the farthest country church, and in the evening at the intermediate place of worship.

"Taking his one sermon he had brought along, which happened to be from the text, "I am not ashamed of the gospel," the young minister made a good impression at the morning service In the congregation he noticed a negro, which was an unusual thing for that community, and at dinner he learned that the colored man was employed as a hostler at the village tavern.

"In the afternoon at the farthest country church in his charge, he had scarcely announced his text, "I am not ashamed of the gospel," when he again noticed his colored friend in the congregation He silently wondered if the negro noted the sermon was the same as in the morning, but did not think much about it In the evening, however at the third church, when he again announced his text, "I am not ashamed of the gospel," he was more than ever disconcerted, when he again beheld his colored friend and brother in the congregation. At the close of services while shaking hands with the congregation, he greeted his colored friend, who exclaimed:

"You'se de best preacher I ebber seen. You'se not ashamed ob de gospel in Hope Centre, in Glendale, or heah—not ashamed ob it any where. Dat's de true religion!"

A local gatherer of daffodils hands the following bouquet to the Mail which originally appeared in Life:

Now if the file in a rasping tone,
Should call the augur a bore,
And the monkey wrench a nut from the vice,
Would the plane just smooth things o'er?

If the house was full and the water drunk,
Would the hose reel all around?
And if the waters could speak as they flow,
How would Long Island Sound?

If you board a spell at a shore hotel
Is the billow that you pay?
If a single car weighs several tons,
How much does the whole subway?

Can a scavenger be a cheerful man,
When he's always in the dumps?
If the water pipes in a dance hall burst,
Would the dancers use their pumps?

If a Harvard oarsman rows in a shell,
In what does the salmon roe?
If no grass is grown in the frozen North,
What does the Eskimo?

If a gun missed fire, would a parachute?
This stuff gives me a pain.
If Franklin Park is a beautiful spot,
Why is Jamaica Plain?

If a bulldfrog wore a hobble skirt,
Would the lily pad—and hark?
If a thief broke into a drug store,
Do you thing the dogwood bark?

If a parrot can swear can a crocus too?

Enough, ere we will grow ill!
This is the frivolous sort of thing that is dubbed a Daffodil.

A Helpless Invalid

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

A woman who is sick and suffering, and won't at least try a medicine which has the record of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, is, it would almost seem, to blame for her own wretchedness. Read what this woman says:

Richmond, Mo. — "When my second daughter was eighteen months old I was pronounced a hopeless invalid by specialists. I had a consultation of doctors and they said I had a severe case of ulceration. I was in bed for ten weeks, had sinking spells, and was pronounced to be in a dangerous condition. My father insisted that we try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and brought me six bottles. I soon began to improve, and before it had all been taken I was as well and strong as ever.—my friends hardly recognized me so great was the change." — Mrs. Woodson Branstetter, Richmond, Mo.

There are literally hundreds of thousands of women in the United States who have been benefited by this famous old remedy, which was produced from roots and herbs over thirty years ago by a woman to relieve woman's suffering.

Read what another woman says:—

Jonesboro, Texas.—"I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for myself and daughter, and consider it unequalled for all female diseases. I would not be without it for anything. I wish every mother in America could be persuaded to use it as there would be less suffering among our sex then. I am always glad to speak a word of praise for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and you are at liberty to use this testimonial."—Mrs. James T. Lawrence, Jonesboro, Texas.

Since we guarantee that all testimonials which we publish are genuine, is it not fair to suppose that if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had the virtue to help these women it will help any other woman who is suffering from the same trouble?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

If the slightest trouble appears which you do not understand, write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for her advice—it is free and always helpful.

The Daily Newspaper

All experienced advertisers acknowledge that familiarity by the public with the name and nature of their wares is one of the first essentials of success. To attain this familiarity the eye must be appealed to, and appealed to repeatedly. Sporadic appeals are as useless as a bucket of water thrown on an arid plain. What the eye sees the mind holds, but they must see it daily---and the daily newspaper offers the only stable opportunity for the direct aim at the vision. The story told in the daily newspaper, day after day, is impressed on the mind. This impression is a valuable factor.

The Charleroi Mail reaches practically every English reading household in Charler i, besides circulating up and down the river. At no time in the history of Charleroi has any Charleroi newspaper been so widely or eagerly read than is the Mail at the present time.

Over 7,000 persons read the Charleroi Mail every day

Can an advertiser by any other means reach the eyes and ears of so many people in a single day?

What would the bill distributor charge you for distributing 8,000 bill a day? Compare the cost of the bills and the distribution with the cost of an advertisement in the Mail.

Dissolving Alum.

When alum is intended for external use, where it is purposely to callous the flesh as in the case of fever blisters and heated or even frost-bitten feet, if it is dissolved in alcohol it will be twice as effective The alcohol is quickly absorbed by the flesh, carries some of the dissolved alum with it, and, therefore, less applications will be required to achieve the desired results.

prison. But will any one say that the man who toils to get food for his family must support the lazy tramp who will not work, that a man should visit the sick when a doctor prescribes quiet, or go into prison and complain about the laws of the State and the conduct of the officers whose duty it is to enforce the laws?

If we could only learn to visit the prisons so as to extend sympathy and help to the man who realizes his shame and give good advice to the man who still persists in his erring way we could possibly do more good than by standing around berating our public officials.

STRENGTHENED BY NEW SCHOOL CODE

Keystone State's Advanced Position in Popular Education.

LIBERALITY OF LEGISLATURE

Removal of Limitations In Former System and Higher Standards In Scholarship.

In popular education no other state has taken a more advanced position than Pennsylvania The superiority of the Keystone State's public school system is attracting the attention of leading educators throughout the country. Recently a New England critic in a magazine article called attention to the fact that Pennsylvania's poorest paid country school teachers receive larger salaries than thousands of teachers in New England; that the scholarship [illegible] professional training in the normal schools of this state have reached an exceptionally high standard of excellence; that normal school principals in Pennsylvania receive 60 per cent higher salaries than those, for instance, in Massachusetts, that this state appropriates more money for her common schools than all of the New England states combined and, what is of the highest importance politics has played no part in the administration of the state's schools for many years.

The public school system of Pennsylvania was further strengthened by legislation at the recent session of the legislature, which enacted a new school code law and appropriated $15 000,000 for the support of the public schools during the next two years This appropriation brings the total appropriation during the past twenty years in which the Republican party has been supreme in the state to the magnificent sum of $121,000,000. During all the years that preceded the total appropriation for that purpose amounted to less than $40,000,000.

Development of Public School System.

The enactment of the new code law marks an epoch in the development of popular education in Pennsylvania In it the essential elements of the public school system as established during three quarters of a century are preserved, while many of the defects and limitations of that system are removed. It strengthens the department of public instruction by giving the state superintendent an increased force of assistants and an intelligent body of advisers in the state board of education It seeks to prepare the way for the gradual accumulation of a state school fund, the revenues from which can be used to assist the weaker districts and to make school facilities more nearly equal all over the state It provides medical inspection at state expense for rural districts and for all communities which have a population less than 5000. Many a child can be placed on an equal footing with other children if its eyes, ears, nose, teeth and throat are examined by a skillful physician and if existing defects are brought to the attention of the parents and corrected by careful treatment The public has come to believe in the conservation of our national resources No asset has greater possibilities than the children who are now at school and who will shape the future destinies of the republic.

Equal Opportunities For Pupils.

The care of the child's health is of supreme importance. Poorly constructed school houses are a menace to the health of both teacher and pupil. The code provides for suggestions and criticisms by an experienced architect whenever school houses are to be erected In heating, lighting, ventilation and general comfort, the latest school houses excel the average home, and under the new plans for building school houses, the child's health may be expected to improve from the day it enters the public schools

The new code also reduces the size of the school boards and confers upon the school directors larger powers for effective education It permits the voters to say whether the directors in office have given the children satisfactory school privileges If they have not furnished adequate school facilities, new men can be elected in their places. In so far as the directors have been faithful to their trust, the people can continue them in office Provision is made for the introduction of new forms of agricultural and industrial education. The law seeks to place within reach of every child the advantages of a standard high school course, thus opening the doors of entrance to the occupations which pay best and which now aspire to be ranked as learned vocations Under the new code [illegible] public schools, more than ever [illegible] with more equal opportunities [illegible] all the children of the common

[illegible] for Teachers.

In [illegible] been taken of the [illegible] service. This [illegible] ing [illegible] industry and medi[illegible] always avoided in [illegible] the sources of a livelihood [illegible] those in the professions were dependent, but the higher standards of entrance have been made to apply to those who are preparing to enter upon a professional career. On the one hand the code does not interfere with the certificates of teachers in the service, but on the other, it supplies a stimulus to beginners, who should push their studies until they can pass the examination for a life certificate. The constitution prevents pensions except to sailors and soldiers in the service of the state or the nation. Hence it has been impossible to provide pensions for teachers out of state funds Laws permitting the local authorities to provide retirement funds for teachers have been enacted, and the wisdom of this legislation as exemplified in many sections of the commonwealth has added further laurels to the record of the Republican party.

The legislature also provided for the organization of a bureau of professional education for the purpose of securing reciprocity with other states in medical, dental and pharmaceutical licenses. Pennsylvania has always been foremost in her colleges of medicine, dentistry and pharmacy, and the new legislation will serve to perpetuate the supremacy of schools in professional education.

Distribution of School Funds.

The liberality of the legislature in aiding the institutions of higher learning is unrivalled in the history of the state It has substituted for the three medical examining boards a single professional separate board of examiners which will pass upon the qualifications of all medical students, thereby placing all the schools of medicine upon the same basis and requiring them all to attain the same standard of qualifications

The new method of distributing the school appropriation is an improvement on all former methods After deducting from the gross amount items like the amount required under the minimum salary act and for free tuition in the state normal schools for the training of teachers, the remainder is divided into two equal parts One half is distributed upon the basis of the number of teachers employed, and the other half is distributed upon the basis of the children between six and sixteen years of age This will prevent any injustice from the padding of the roll of taxables by the enumeration of temporary sojourners in the crowded centers of population

The enactment of the new school code and the creation of the bureaus of medical and professional education are distinct steps of progress for which the Republican party can claim credit.

Never Drink Water.

In [illegible] California a large number of the smaller desert mammals never drink water according to American scientists who have recently visited the peninsula They live and thrive on dry seeds and scraps of vegetation in places where the heat and aridity are excessive without ever touching their lips to water, and it has even been found impossible to teach some of them to take water in captivity.
